Hello [REDACTED]

Further to our receiving the latest draft would you be able to have a call please with Anne and I?
We can fit to your availability; let me know.

Many thanks

Hi all,

New iteration of this attached, together with my responses to the comments received, so you can see what has been done.

As ever, let us know if anything else comes up that you need from us.

Thanks as always,

Hello [REDACTED],

Thank you for the second draft report and your time on our call to help us understand and interpret the analysis.
In addition to that discussion, I said I would send our further comments or requests and attach them here.

I am now on leave so when you have had chance to read and digest if you have any questions before finalising the report please contact Anne.
When you can submit the final report please copy it to all recipients of this email.

Have a lovely bank holiday weekend!
Kind regards

Hi [REDACTED]

A new iteration of the report for you. I've also attached a document with brief responses to your previous feedback, so you can see what we have done with it.

The only outstanding point is the issue with cumulative data and FS102, where I believe I'm still waiting for the final wording from you. I can update that alongside any other points you might pick up, but I'm confident nothing will change in the interpretation which should impact you, it will just be wording.

Any other feedback or things we can help to clarify – just let us know.

Thanks,

[REDACTED]

Subject: Feedback on draft report

Hello [REDACTED]

Thank you for the draft report and it's fast tracking. We really appreciate it and are obviously interested to see the general outcomes it shows, in line with our own much more broad assessment of how our performance is looking.

I've collated the attached feedback and hope it is helpful – I'm sure many of the detailed points have already been picked up.

I would be very happy to chat about the separation of the totally objective analysis from wider use and interpretation – and Anne is too – so if a call would be helpful at this stage then please let me know. And any queries just shout!

I know you were hoping for a final report around 20th (at our speeded up request!) so once you have read this let me know if that remains do-able.

Kind regards

[REDACTED]
